

Effectiveness with team

What did I have for lunch last Thursday?

I don't know

The Three Hardest Words in the English Language

Until you can admit what you don't know, it's virtually impossible to learn what you need to.

Because if you think you already have all the answers,
you won't go looking for them.

The way you learn
is from feedback.

We developers should probably be pretty good at this feedback thing

When you were a baby you tried to walk and fell down every time.

When you were a baby you tried to walk and fell down every time.

Were you a walking impostor?

Who are you to walk!?

When you were a baby you tried to walk and fell down every time.

Were you a walking impostor?

Who are you to walk!?

You can't even do it! It's absurd!

I don't even have impostor syndrome.
That's how bad my impostor syndrome is.

You are growing into something different.
You are getting better.
How?
By trying to do something better than you actually can.
That's not a lie, that's valor.

Empathy is difficult
If you believed what he believes,
you'd do precisely what he's doing.

Think about that for a second.
People act based on the way they see the world.
Every single time.

Understanding someone else's story is hard,
a job that's never complete,
but it's worth the effort.
